The NWTALA, CSLA and LACF cordially invites you to attend a talk by Professor Ron Williams who will share his perspective on some of Canada's most significant and iconic landscapes and parks. He will also highlight more recent examples of landscape architecture projects that raise some challenging issues regarding heritage preservation and resource extraction.

This talk is part of CONVERSATIONS ON LANDSCAPES, a cross-country book tour that has provided audiences with a unique opportunity to understand the role landscape architects have played in shaping the Canada we live in today. Support for this talk has been provided by the NWT Association of Landscape Architects, the Canadian Society of Landscape Architects and the Landscape Architecture Canada Foundation.

CONVERSATIONS celebrates the publication of Ron Williams' seminal book, Landscape Architecture in Canada, released in May 2014 by McGill-Queen's University Press, and les Presses de l'Université de Montréal. This is the first comprehensive book documenting the origins and development of landscape architecture in Canada.
